Dozer track link assy with track shoes and groups function to allow crawler-type heavy machinery to move efficiently. These track chains and groups are made up of flexible links that are connected together by fittings called pins and bushings. There are two types of track chains that exist for heavy machinery: dry chains and lubricated chains. It is made by forging, machining, heat treatment, assembly, painting etc.

The quality and working life depends on the quality of raw steels, the hardness of rail surface, the depth of hardness layer, the quality of seal group etc.
